

ON-THE-JOB WORK EXPERIENCE OVERCOMING THE HURDLES

Few components of CTE are more highly valued or more difficult to deliver than on-the-job work experience – not just career exposure, but actual time on the job at a company or in the public sector. Educators and employers struggle to overcome an array of hurdles. Educators have trouble finding employers willing to sponsor interns. Even employers who have hired interns or apprentices and understand the value can be stymied by burdensome regulations and insurance requirements. And arranging a work-based placement is often just the beginning – it can be as hard or harder to structure a working relationship that pays off for both employer and employee. Come hear a panel of educators, employers, state officials and workforce intermediaries talk about how to make meaningful on-the-job experience available for more students.

WHEN Saturday, December 3, 9:00 a.m.

WHERE ACTE VISION, Las Vegas

WHO Dawn BRASWELL, Siemens
Siobhan KELLY, Camden County Technical Schools
Robin KROYER-KUBICEK, WI Dept of Public Instruction
Mary TAYLOR, Kentucky Department of Education

Moderated by Tamar JACOBY, Opportunity America