

ESSAY AUTHORS

John Bailey is a fellow at the Chan Zuckerberg Initiative and a nonresident senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute. He also serves as an advisor to the Walton Family Foundation. His previous positions include domestic policy advisor in the White House, deputy policy director to the US Secretary of Commerce and director of educational technology at the US Department of Education.

Derrell Bradford is the president of 50CAN and a senior visiting fellow at the Thomas B. Fordham Institute. He was the founding board chair of EdBuild and currently leads the National Voices fellowship.

Denise Forte is the CEO at The Education Trust. Prior to Ed Trust, she was a senior fellow and director of public affairs for the Century Foundation. During the Obama administration, she served as principal deputy assistant secretary and acting assistant secretary in the Office of Planning, Evaluation and Policy Development in the US Department of Education.

Paul Herdman is president and CEO of Rodel-Delaware and a founding member of Delaware's Vision Coalition. He is also an Aspen Institute-NewSchools fellow in entrepreneurial leadership. Prior to Rodel, he served as senior manager at New American Schools.

Tamar Jacoby is president of Opportunity America. A former journalist and author, she was a senior writer and justice editor at Newsweek and, before that, the deputy editor of the New York Times op-ed page. She is the author of Someone Else's House: America's Unfinished Struggle for Integration and editor of This Way Up: New Thinking about Poverty and Economic Mobility.

Robin Lake is director of the Center on Reinventing Public Education at Arizona State University. Her research focuses on US public school system reform, including public school choice and charter schools, portfolio management and state and local oversight practices.

Will Marshall is president and founder of the Progressive Policy Institute and a former member of the board of the Washington DC Public Charter Schools. His articles have appeared in the New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, Los Angeles Times, The American Interest, The American Prospect and Democracy, among other publications.

Frances Messano is the CEO of NewSchools Venture Fund. Her previous positions include vice president at Teach for America and associate partner at Monitor Institute.

Robert Pondiscio is a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute. He was previously a New York City public school teacher and a journalist at Time and BusinessWeek. He is the author of How the Other Half Learns: Equality, Excellence, and the Battle over School Choice.

Keri Rodrigues is the founding president of the National Parents Union. A member of the US Department of Education's National Parent and Family Engagement Council, she worked previously at 1199SEIU and was elected to the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee.

Andrew Rotherham is a co-founder and partner at Bellwether, where he writes the blog and newsletter Eduwonk.com. Currently a member of the Virginia Board of Education, during the Clinton administration, he served as special assistant to the president for domestic policy

Ian Rowe is the founder of Vertex Partnership Academies and a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute. Previous positions include CEO of Public Prep and deputy director of postsecondary success at the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. He is the author of Agency: The Four Point Plan for All Children to Overcome the Victimhood Narrative and Discover Their Pathway to Power.

Jessica Schurz is program manager at the Hertog Foundation. She worked previously as a research assistant in the American Enterprise Institute's education department.

Matt Sigelman is president of the Burning Glass Institute, chairman of Lightcast and a visiting fellow at the Harvard Kennedy School's Center for Social Policy. He previously worked at McKinsey & Company and Capital One.